	Host, Pastor Bill Illnisky, introduces his wife, Ester Illnisky. Ester shares on how God has called her into intercession. She speaks of standing in the gap for someone as if you were the one who had abortions for example. Ester explains that anti-abortionists, who actively speak out against abortion, do not touch the spirit realm; rather their voices are heard on a horizontal level. The point is, it's in the spirit realm where the first change must take place.

They discuss the different battles being waged as a result of the Missouri-Webster Supreme Court decision which gave the states a right to restrict abortions. They introduce a roll in from CBN reporter Janet Boyd showing Gene Guerreno of ACLU and Susan Smith, Associate Director of national Right to Life, giving statements of their stance on abortion. The struggle between the two opposing stands will no doubt go on for years. They point out that america is a pluralist society, and individual rights cannot be violated.

CHILD ABUSE	Miami Praise The Lord 072189 Pastor Clifford Horvath and his wife, Nedda, interview Lennie Berger of the Bair Foundation, a Christian Foster Care and Adoption Agency. Berger points out the alarming fact that over 7,000 children are in detention halls, mental institutions, foster homes, residential group facilities, and camps all over the state of Florida due to child abuse, molestation, and abandonment. He says that the state cannot keep up with the number of children that are being abused and abandoned. Last year, out of 7,000 children, 200 died in the direct care of the state of Florida. He admonishes the church that it should take on more of a responsibility in this area!	L	PA/O	07-21-89	11:30am	1:59:48

They have two programs, secular, which allows them to go into the high schools, and Christian, designed to go into the churches. Speaking from her own experience of being sexually abused, she is able to talk with such victims. She helps them find support groups. She provides complete anonymity, and guides them into forgiveness. She contends that it is necessary in order that the victim not continue in fear, or hate, or isolation.

	Jim McClellan interviews Kathy collard Miller, author/speaker. Author of several books on child rearing, Miller discusses her latest book "Healing The Angry Heart," and tells how she coped with her own verbal and physical abuse of her children. She stressed the need to deal with anger rather than repressing it. She suggests using a distractor to release tension such as a pillow or a wall. It is important to learn to verbalize in a constructive way. Verbal and physical abuse can be as damaging as sexual abuse in that it demeans the child's personality and prevents them from developing a healthy self-image.

CHILD ABUSE (con't)	The 700 Club 0818-89 (con't) Situational abusers and pedophiles are the main types of abusers. John Raburn, Vice-President of National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, says a pedophile usually works with children and are usually charming and well-liked by children. Pornography plays an important part of the pedophile's life. Terry then interviews Dr. Douglas Reed, family therapist and Vice-President of National Coalition Against Pornography, who says it is impossible to totally protect one's children, but the best way is to have good communication with one's children. Dr. Reed gives advice to parents for protecting their children from abuse, and advises careful scrutiny for any signs of inflammation or infection of genital areas.	N	PA/O	08-18-89 3:00pm	59:30
	A Date With Dale #95 Dale Evans introduces Dr. William Steiner, Director of Orangewood Children's Home, an emergency home for abused children. Dr. Steiner, a criminology psychologist, first served Los Angeles County in the adoption services. He and Dale discuss the need for providing care and love to abused children. Effort is made to help rehabilitate abusive parents, but often the children have to be removed from them permanently. He explains about the subconscious healing that needs to be done in a child's life because of early abuse. They are seeing more infant drug addiction these days, and such children need special love and nurture. They receive children brought to them by police departments from all around Orange County. Also, AIDS in infants is now becoming more frequent. Child Abuse has been increasing at an alarming rate.	N	PA/O	08-26-89 2:30pm 08-31-89 8:30pm	27:45 27:45

She points out that such victims have trouble putting trust in anyone, and such trust must be restored. She seeks to help abused victims pull themselves out of a "Victimized" mentality, in order that they may become well-rounded individuals. She encourages victims to share with someone, for in doing so, the person no longer is captive to that abuse.			09-14-89 5:00pm	1:58:48

Arribas points out that she feels that the biggest factor involved here is a lack of education about the disease. She feels that along with teaching the people and educating them about the disease to illiminate the ignorance and fears of it, they should also talk about the high risk practices involved.

He contends that fat is the large culprit in America's ill health. He stresses eating fruits and vegetables, eating oatmeal for fiber, and drinking water as the best thirst quencher.	N	PA/O	07-10-89 6:30am	56:48

	Jim McClellan moderates a panel discussion on some aspects of health, reasons for ill health and ways of maintaining good health. Panelists: Dr. Donald Whitaker of mission Viejo, California; Dr. Leonard Avedian, plastic surgeon, Newport Beach, California; Dr. Keith Walker, chiropractor of Costa Mesa, California; Dr. Michael Linzey, gynecologist of Orange, California; Dr. Henry Cloud, psychologist of Gardena, California; Dr. William Crook, author of "Yeast: The Answer Book," Jackson, Tennessee; Dr. Gary Wilson, dentist, Riverside, California. Each doctor discussed from his experience some aspect of maintaining good health. They gave suggestions on what kinds of food to eat and what to avoid. All considered exercise important.

	In these two programs, Dr. Whitaker discusses breast cancer with Dablin Anagnostou, a patient. Having undergone a mastectomy, she admits she was a prime example of one whose diet no doubt contributed to the cancer, for it contained a lot of sugar. She also had a highly stressful job, and did no exercise. She stressed the need for women to examine their breasts and have periodic checkups. Dr. Whitaker emphasizes the necessity to control one's diet, avoiding fats, hydrogenated oils, and sugars.

	In the three preceding programs, Dr. Whitaker discusses several health topics. Dr. Jeffrey Bland, Ph.D. in Bio-chemistry, is a guest in all three. Dr. William Rea, cario-vascular surgeon and Director of Environmental Health Center, and Dr. Doris Rapp, Pediatric Allergist and clinical egologist are in program #396. Dr. Bland discusses cancer, reaffirming some of the recent research that says fat is suspected as a culprit in causing cancer. In program #396, all three doctors discuss how allergies play such an important part in health and behavior. They urge listeners to be alert to the foods that seem to cause reactions.
